The Virginia Wounded Warrior Program

The Virginia Wounded Warrior Program ensures that our wounded warriors and their families receive timely assessment, treatment, and support.

The Virginia Wounded Warrior Program

In response to the growing need to improve and expand services to our veterans and military service members, the Commonwealth of Virginia established the Virginia Wounded Warrior Program (VWWP) in 2008. VWWP coordinates support services for veterans with stress-related and traumatic brain injuries resulting from service in a combat area. The program ensures that these veterans and their families receive timely assessment, treatment, and support.

Regional coalitions of community services boards, brain injury services providers, and other public and private service providers are offering services across the Commonwealth. These coalitions will enhance the existing array of services in their communities based on an ongoing assessment of local needs.

Following are examples of the services that may be available through these networks of public and private providers:

- Linkages to comprehensive and timely assessment
- Coordination of services
- Outpatient treatment
- Outreach activities
- Rehabilitative services
- Peer support
- Support groups
- Family support

Funding

The Virginia General Assembly appropriates funds for VWWP. Although generous, state funding is not sufficient to provide an adequate level of service to Virginia's wounded warriors. Support from individuals, veterans service organizations, and the private sector is crucial.

The Virginia Veterans Services Foundation receives contributions in support of VWWP. The Foundation strives to ensure that contributions directly serve our wounded warriors.
